Atmospheric platformer with puzzle elements where the ball is controlled with one mouse click. Very repetative and the music playing in the background is really akward and not nice to listen to. You practically don't need to take any effort to pass a level as a ball you are playing with does almost all by itself, but the very moment you decide to get all stars for the level it becomes far more challenging and requiring more retries. You have to complete the previous level AGAIN if you want to continue making progress. There is a crucial bug in Lv13 which has to be fixed as soon as possible. Beause of that bug you can't finish the game 100%.
